

Gongxuan Zhang received the B.S. degree in electronic computer from Tianjin University in 1983 and the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in Computer Application from the Nanjing University of Science and Technology in 1991 and 2005, respectively. He was a Senior Visiting Scholar in Royal Melbourne Institute of Technology from 2001.9 to 2002.3 and a Guest Professor University of Notre Dame from 2017.7 to 2017.10. Since 1991, he has been with the Nanjing University of Science and Technology, where he is currently a professor in the School of Computer Science and Engineering. His current research interests include web services and distributed system, multicore and parallel processing and distributed computing, and trusted computing system. He is CCF Distinguished Member and ACM/IEEE Senior Member. He has served on the program committees in a couple of conferences. He has over 100 publications and has led or participated in 40 research projects supported by the National Science Foundation of China, 863 High Planning and the Provincial Science Foundation of Jiangsu.